“Be All That You Can Be!”

In a society obsessed with materialism, mesmerized by image, and absorbed by sex, how is the gospel to be preached? In a nation fascinated by violence, gripped by fear, and tempted to despair, how is the gospel to be preached? In a culture permeated by noise, saturated by soundbites, and fueled with disrespect, how is the gospel to be preached? There's only one way - the way of Christ.

Some among us have a special gift of preaching with words that inspire and motivate us, but all of us have the gift of preaching with our very lives. We share the gospel by the way we live, treating others well and being generous with our time and our money. We live the gospel by the way we work, being honest and reliable, being helpful and non-judgmental. We teach the gospel by the way we raise our families, nurturing the virtues of tolerance, compassion, mercy and justice. We preach the gospel by our very lives, by the faith that we have in Jesus Christ.

In the history of the Church, there have been so many good people who quietly lived their lives despite difficult circumstances. They preached the gospel by living it.

Today we are challenged to live out the message of Christ as best we can, with all the strengths and weaknesses we possess, with joys and sorrows, with success and failure. It must be our daily mission to be the best version of ourselves. We must attempt on a daily basis to be the best person possible for Christ. Be confident - you can do it.

Blessings,
Father Vincent T. Kelly
